Germany is Europe's research leader and is number one export country in the world. It is also one of the top 3 countries in term of patent registrations.
- High academic standards
"Made in Germany" is recognized as a seal of quality the world over, and a degree from a German university is accepted internationally and employers around the world are always glad to see graduates from German institutions.
- A wide range of subjects you can study
There are around 450 public universities and higher education institutions that offer over 17,500 majors – including bachelor's and master's degrees as well as doctoral programs.
- German language skills are in demand
Germany is the fourth most popular destinations for international students in the world, and speaking German is a clear advantage for your CV.
- Publicly financed higher education of uncompromising quality with very low fees
In the vast majority of cases, international students do not pay any tuition fees in Germany.

OUR PROGRAM FOR PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS:

GERMAN INTENSIVE COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PLACEMENT SERVICE

The costs for the university placement service are dependent on the length of the language course you book as detailed in the following fee schedule:

Length of the language course booked	Fee for the university placement service
12–17 weeks	1.000 €
18–23 weeks	900 €
24–29 weeks	800 €
More than 30 weeks	700 €

In the course of the application process, there may on occasion be some additional costs for third party services, such as for certification and translation of documents, processing fees from external application portals (e.g. uni-assist), fees for language tests, etc. The candidates must cover these costs in addition to the service fee paid to Carl Duisberg Centren.

What's included in the service:

- Completing up to three applications to advanced courses/ degree programs at German preparatory colleges/ universities of the candidate's choice
- Individual academic advising on the choice of suitable institutions.

HIGHER EDUCATION IN GERMANY

We differentiate between two types of higher education institutions:

- Universities – greater focus on research
- Universities of applied science – practice-oriented approach, closer relationships with private industry

Around 95 percent of higher educational institutions are publicly financed, and the students, therefore, do not pay tuition fees (in most cases).

DEGREES GRANTED IN GERMANY

- Bachelor's: students are awarded the first academic degree after three or four years of study.
- Master's: After the bachelor's, a master's last two years or four semesters. The majority of students choose to delve deeper into the subject they studied in their bachelor's or specialize in a particular field.
